SALES PLAYBOOK

Document Code: NV-SLS-001 | Version: 1.4 | Effective Date: 01 April 2026

1. Purpose & Audience

This playbook equips Nova.ai Account Executives (AEs) and Sales Development Representatives (SDRs) with a consistent approach to qualifying, pitching, and closing deals for Nova Assistant, our enterprise RAG-based knowledge assistant product.

2. Ideal Customer Profile (ICP)

- Company size — 500+ employees, with a dedicated IT/knowledge management function.
- Pain signal — large volume of internal documents (policies, SOPs, tickets) that employees or support agents struggle to search efficiently.
- Priority verticals — BFSI, IT/ITES, healthcare, and enterprise SaaS, where document volume and compliance needs are highest.
- Buying trigger — rising support ticket volume, onboarding time complaints, or a recent internal audit flagging inconsistent policy interpretation.

3. Sales Stages & Exit Criteria

Stage	Primary Activity	Exit Criteria
1. Prospecting	Outbound outreach, inbound lead triage	Discovery call scheduled
2. Discovery	Pain, budget, authority, timeline (BANT) qualification	Confirmed use case & champion identified
3. Demo & Pilot	Tailored product demo; 14-day scoped pilot	Pilot success criteria met
4. Proposal	Pricing proposal, security review, DPA shared	Verbal commitment received
5. Negotiation	Contract terms, legal review	Signed order form
6. Handoff	Introduction to Customer Success	Kickoff call completed

4. Discovery Questions

- “How much time do your teams currently spend searching for internal information across documents and tools?”
- “What happens today when someone can’t find the right policy or answer quickly?”
- “Which systems hold your most critical knowledge — wikis, tickets, SOPs?”
- “Who would be accountable for rolling this out, and what would success look like in 90 days?”

5. Value Proposition by Persona

Persona	Primary Value Message
Head of IT / CIO	Faster resolution, reduced ticket load, auditable citation trail
Head of Customer Support	Faster agent onboarding, consistent answers, lower escalations
Head of HR / People Ops	Employees self-serve policy questions, less HR ticket volume
CFO / Procurement	Predictable per-page pricing, fast time-to-value, no model training on their data

Objection Handling: “We already have a chatbot / search tool”

Acknowledge the existing investment, then differentiate: Nova Assistant is grounded in your actual documents with citation-backed answers (not generic model knowledge), continuously evaluated against Recall@K/MRR/Faithfulness metrics, and deployable on your own infrastructure if data residency is a concern. Offer the 14-day pilot to demonstrate the accuracy difference directly on their own documents.

6. Pricing & Discounting Guardrails

Standard discounting authority for AEs is up to 10% off list price for annual contracts paid upfront. Discounts of 10–20% require Sales Manager approval; anything above 20% requires CRO sign-off. Multi-year contracts (2–3 years) may receive an additional 5% loyalty discount, stacked on top of the approved base discount.

7. Competitive Positioning

Against generic enterprise search tools, lead with retrieval accuracy and citation transparency. Against other RAG vendors, lead with deployment flexibility (SaaS, single-tenant, or on-premise/VPC) and the continuous Faithfulness-based evaluation loop described in the AI Product Documentation, which most competitors do not expose to customers.

8. Handoff to Customer Success

Upon signature, the AE schedules a joint kickoff call with Customer Success within 3 working days, sharing the account's use case notes, pilot results, and any commitments made during the sales cycle, consistent with the Customer Support Manual's onboarding process.
